HUMANE EFFORTS BRING RESULTS

It is a strange fact that in territorial disputes, Russia and America seem to find common ground. In the case of the Russian famine, the American Relief Association has been successful in obtaining the release of the Russian prisoners of war.

eral policy for promoting the interests of agriculture.

Not in any respect or at any time has President Harding opposed any legislation which could fairly be considered a proper national activity for the promotion of agricultural welfare. In his latest message to congress he has urged legislation for the extension of farm credits.

The greatest philosophy we know of was recently displayed by a brewer who is so certain that beer is coming back that he has already declared a stock dividend.

After all these years as a farmer Jess Willard should be able to plant his fists.

Through a new invention we will be able to see hundreds of miles. But will be able to see through things.

act revealing the war finance corporation, the particular purpose of which was to provide financial aid in developing foreign markets for agricultural products. The Wilson administration refused to act for that purpose. Immediately upon his inauguration President Harding set the war finance corporation on a new and effective operating basis and it has done more than any other one thing to relieve the farmers of the depressing effects of surplus production for which there was no market. The surplus has been absorbed by the millions of dollars loaned by this administration to finance the export of farm products with the effect of raising the price for the producers. Much of this fund has been repaid and released. The Harding administration also changed the deflation program which had hit the farmer so hard in the closing months of the Democratic regime.

The best act of President Harding in the interest of the farmers was the calling of a special session of congress the immediate purpose of which was to enact an emergency agricultural tariff law which was to be in accordance with the wishes and with the full approval of the agricultural interests of the country. In his address to the special session of congress, President Harding stressed the needs of agricultural industry and the duty of the nation to protect the farmer from the unfair competition of foreign markets, the reduction of federal taxes, the development of foreign markets and the improvement of public highways.

President Harding also urged and signed legislation increasing the funds of the farm loan board. He favored and signed the cooperation market bill, legislation extending the time to complete payments by farmers in reclamation projects, and the grandfather control bill. The president called an agricultural conference at Washington for the purpose of adopting a general

They said justice is blind, maybe so, but perhaps she would not like to see some of the things that have been done in her name.

The most important job for our representatives in Washington is for them to tell the difference between a pill and a bill.

The Chinese prince who wedded a wife whose face he had never seen until the wedding is different than the average husband. The latter never sees her face again after he is married.

Now that the flapper is disappearing we must look for something else to blame for everything.

In New York photos of owners are required on pistol permits. A man now hasn't the face to carry a weapon.

Still a holy war could not be much worse than a righteous one.

The realization that some 40,000 revolvers and 300 shotguns are now in the hands of postal employees who have been trained to use them accurately and instructed to use them when needed, is considered the real reason of the decrease in mail robberies.

On and after January 13, 1923, local postmasters are authorized to grant Saturday half-holidays to all of their employees wherever it is possible without injury to the local postal service. This order applies throughout the year. Heretofore Saturday half-holidays have been granted only during the summer season and in many cities it was not granted at all.
